for Animals

On Saturday, December 11, four shops along Adams Morgan's trendy 18th Street will donate 10 percent of the day's sales to the Washington Animal Rescue League. Spearheaded by The Brass Knob Architectural Antiques, the other shops are: Toro Mata, Skynear & Company, and A Little Shop of Flowers. Visit 18th Street on December 11, discover one-of-a-kind gifts for the holiday season—and support our dogs and cats at the same time!

The Brass Knob Architectural Antiques. www.thebrassknob.com. “Reuse” and “Recycle” are two pillars of the green philosophy at The Brass Knob Architectural Antiques. With most items dating from 1870 to 1940, and many directly from the DC area, the shop offers everything from its signature doorknobs to stained glass, to grand chandeliers and many decorative architectural items—with a gem for every price range.

Toro Mata. www.toromata.com. Toro Mata features a classic selection of furnishings, decorating accessories, alpaca apparel, artwork and cases full of unique artisan jewelry--all imported directly from the master artisans of Peru. Toro Mata features a first floor shop and a mezzanine gallery.

Skynear & Company. www.skynearonline.com. Located inside an 1890s Victorian townhouse, Skynear & Company carries eclectic and upscale furniture, lighting and home décor, as well as jewelry and women's accessories. Its furniture can be found many places: embassies, movie sets, TV studios, model homes, and hotel lobbies.

A Little Shop of Flowers. www.alittleshopofflowers-dc.com. A local full-service florist, Little Shop specializes in novel and creative arrangements. The shop has one of the city's best selections of houseplants and potted trees such as orchids, ficus, bird of paradise, and bamboo, as well as a large array of unusual cut flowers. Come by to shop with your pets.
